me: yeah
Mirna: FANCY
Mirna: does that mean my name is under yours?
Mirna: ooooh!!! me: I can get it on Huffington Post and name you collaborator me: write what people have said regarding political. economic situation me: send me an e-mail with about a page of observations about daily life in beirut compared to other times you've been there Mirna: yay!
me: you can be my temporary lebanon correspondent me: in fact, this will help both of us Mirna: yes love me: do me a favor
me: hey
Mirna: seriously, you'd be in heaven
Mirna: for a month
Mirna: i told you Mirna: im in lebanon silly me: oh, Beirut
Mirna: its retarded Mirna: and more women than men me: Austin?
Mirna: there are beautiful women everywhere
Mirna: and get a woman Mirna: you should totally come here
me: WELL DONE
Mirna: when you are rich
Mirna: hey by the way
Mirna: BUT I GAVE IT SOME COKE
Mirna: NO
me: KICK IT Mirna: YOUR BABY IS SLEEPING INSIDE ME me: NO I LOVE YOU me: !
Mirna: love you
Mirna: is that what i would call it?
Mirna: sounds nice

Mirna: collaborator
Mirna: huffington post Mirna: oooh
me: then I'll use this for a couple of articles and you can use it for your resume me: you can do it, it's easy
Mirna: <3
Mirna: i'll see what i can come up with Mirna: will do Mirna: hmmmmm ok me: take a notepad with you at all times me: everything you observe that is of significance to lebanon's current political climate, social climate Mirna: or just political and economic me: politics mostly, the extent to which life is normalized Mirna: cultural? social?
Mirna: hahaha
me: just general things Mirna: only political and economic?
me: it's like we are humping in print Mirna: anything specific you want to know about Mirna: its like we are married in print Mirna: ok will do me: so do a good job Mirna: <3
me: okay, I'll e-mail you more details this weekend Mirna: so i should be able to get some things for you <23
Mirna: i am here till sept 29th
Mirna: gotta go Mirna: ok lover me: yes, definitely Mirna: you want to know what it is like now versus 9 years ago when i came?
Mirna: i have to start asking around Mirna: i am getting you great shit
Mirna: HOT
Mirna: rolling stone and huffington post foreign correspondant me: or either me: can mean both Mirna: oooh ok
Mirna: does correspondent mean that you wrote it or that you just gave info me: foreign correspondent is accurate me: it's not entirely up to date since I don't need it anymore Mirna: oooh overseas correspondent sounds better than collaborator for my resume, but is that accurate?

me: k
Mirna: <3
Mirna: i want to see it Mirna: send me your resume Mirna: i love fame!
and titles!
Mirna: yay!
me: basically, give me lots of notes and you'll be well-rewarded in fame and titles Mirna: oooh i want to be a collaborator on that too me: also, can use it for Rolling Stone in a month or two when editor expands non-music coverage online Mirna: it tells me EVERYTHING
Mirna: i know
Mirna: i am your fan me: I've had like seven articles there in the past two weeks Mirna: that sounds kind of communist Mirna: TUV
Mirna: tuv
Mirna: <3
Mirna: i am very very excited.
me: tuv
